Says LBJ May Accept Change in Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said today there will be amendments to the civil rights bill and President Johnson will accept some changes.

Humphrey, the bill's floor manager, made his statements to the Senate as the 44th day of debate opened. He had told a reporter much the same thing earlier.

This appeared to end the stand taken by the administration and the bill's chief sponsors from the outset that they wanted the House bill with no changes.

Actually, there have been indications for a long time that the supporters of the measure, including top administration officials, were reconciled to a number of amendments.

Humphrey told his colleagues that Johnson "wants a bill with the coverage and enforceability that is included in the House bill."

"But he expects the Senate to do its work and that does not exclude amendments. We know there will be amendments," Humphrey said.

Humphrey and other leading sponsors already have agreed to the pending amendment to the bill to write in a limited requirement for jury trial in criminal contempt actions grow-

Comics Will Be Enlarged Monday; Dear Abby Is to Take Dorothy Dix's Spot

Next Monday Hope Star will present its cartoon strips in a larger format — five columns wide instead of four columns as at present — and will replace the Dorothy Dix column with Dear Abby.

The number of pages in the newspaper also will be increased from the present base of six pages to eight pages most of the time, with an eventual minimum of eight pages every day except the hobbled Saturday edition.

All this is in the interest of greater legibility — an easier-to-read newspaper: Larger news type, bigger cartoons, more pages.

It all began with the new type, which from 1929 until 1960 was a 7-point type. In 1960 we threw out $1,500 worth of perfectly good brass matrices and installed 8-point type on our linotypes. In October 1963 we again discarded matrices and installed the present 9-point type, Linotype's Corona face — making an increase in the size of news type of 28 1/2% since 1959.

The only exception to the program of larger comics is Flash Gordon, which our New York syndicate, King Features, advised us today is available only in four columns. Its companion King feature, Blondie, however, will be five columns wide — as will all the NEA Service cartoons from Cleveland. Our cartoon expansion began last year when we increased the NEA features Out Our Way and Our Boarding House from two columns to three columns — their original width before the craze for condensation set in among American newspapers. If a picture is worth running at all it's worth running BIG. We are simply making the syndicate pictures conform to our policy of local pictures.

We cancelled Dorothy Dix with regret, ending a contract with Bell Syndicate and North American Newspaper Alliance that had run since April 27, 1945. Checking with our women readers we concluded that the daily column, run by different persons since the originator's death, was due for cancellation. The successor column, Dear Abby, written by Abigail Van Buren, and distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc., New York, will be received warmly by the local public, we believe.

Finally, beginning next month The Star is installing a tape-punching machine and operator in the office — and all local news copy and syndicated features will be turned into type automatically instead of being set by hand on the linotypes. A tape-operated linotype is from two to three times as fast as when operated manually — and this is important when expanding the number of pages, already averaging around 50 a week.

4 Unknowns Against Governor

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller drew no Republican opponent and Gov. Orval E. Faubus was challenged by four politically unknown Democrats when the filing deadline passed Wednesday.

Faubus is expected to win easily in the July 23 Democratic primary, setting the stage for a November general election showdown like none other in this century.

The Democratic foes of Faubus are:

—Joe Hubbard of Russellville, who resigned as Reserve Officer Training Corps instructor at Arkansas Tech College to make the race.

—E. T. (Gene) Ridgeway of Newport who served a prison term in the 1950s for embezzlement while he was collector of delinquent taxes in Jackson County.

—Odell Dorsey of Sheridan, an electrical contractor whose business is in North Little Rock.

—R. D. Burrow of Walnut Ridge, a merchant who filed just before the deadline without previous speculation about his candidacy.

The Faubus-Rockefeller race has been shaping up since 1960 when Rockefeller met a seven-year residency requirement.

Faubus intends to emphasize the fact that Rockefeller is the son of one of America's wealthiest families. Faubus was born in a cabin beside an Ozark Mountain stream.

Rockefeller says Faubus couldn't be poor after spending 10 years in the governor's mansion.

By any account, Rockefeller is the underdog.

The election will be a test of Rockefeller's effort to build a two-party system in Arkansas. His work for the Republican Party prevented him from becoming friends with Faubus.

This month he resigned as chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., escaped opposition in the 2nd district.

Dean Murphy, who operates a truck stop near Hope, will oppose Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., in the Democratic Primary in the 4th district.

Florence Kathryn Clay, a Negro widow who operates a funeral home at Forrest City, is running against Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., in the 3rd district.

Petition Would Remove Limit on Officials Pay

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Young Democrats of Arkansas announced plans today to circulate petitions to get an amendment on the November ballot to remove the $5,000 limitation on salaries of county officials.

John Browning, an aide to Gov. Orval E. Faubus, and a group of Young Democrats called on Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett and got quick approval of the popular name and ballot title of the proposal.

Browning said the Young Democrats voted to sponsor the measure at an executive committee in Lonoke April 18 and that he was named chairman of a committee to push circulation of the petitions.

Browning explained that the amendment would give the legislature or residents of a county, through an initiated salary act, authority to set the salaries of county officials with no upper limit.

If the legislature fails to act and if no initiated salary acts were adopted, Browning said, the maximum salary would be set at $5,000, which is the maximum under existing provisions of the Constitution.

The Young Democrats need about 30,000 signatures by July 2 to get the proposal on the general election ballot.

If this measure makes the ballot, voters for the third straight time will be casting ballots on proposals that they have defeated in the last two general elections.

Two of the proposals—to increase the taxing powers of cities and to raise the maximum salaries of state officials, were placed on the ballot by the general assembly.

The judging scale is (1) Appeal (force with which the poster drives home the poppy message), 50 points; (2) Artistic ability, 40 points; (3) Neatness, 10 points.

For further information get a copy of the national rules at Joe's City Bakery.

HOPE COMMUNITY THEATER'S PRODUCTION, "The Brides of March," will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at City Hall. Admission is $1.50. Patrons are urged to see the Clothes Line Fair at City Hall prior to the play, both of these projects are a part of the Festival of Arts.

Maximum readings today and Friday are predicted to be in the upper 70s and low 80s with overnight low marks from 54 to 64.

Maximum readings Wednesday ranged from 66 at Harrison to 76 at El Dorado. Low readings today were from 45 at Walnut Ridge to 55 at Pine Bluff and Texarkana.

Court Accused of Bypassing the Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama separately accused the Supreme Court today of bypassing the country's elected representatives by banning official prayer in public schools.

Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York, told the House Judiciary Committee the Supreme Court ruling is based on a myth, and "a judicial body has become a legislative body."

Wallace said, "We are being manipulated by the courts in a gigantic Socialistic pattern in which the federal judiciary amends the Constitution."

Wallace, who has fought the court on issues of racial segregation, said its prayer decision is a "decree as sweeping and as deadly as any ever issued by any dictatorial power on the face of this earth."

"It is part of the deliberate design to subordinate the American people, their faith, their customs, and religious traditions to a godless state," Wallace said.

Bishop Sheen said that the words "In God We Trust," now on the seal of the United States, are "the perfect prayer" for school.

The committee is examining numerous measures for a constitutional amendment to undo the court decision. It has been accused by Rep. Frank J. Becker, R-N.Y., chief sponsor of the proposals, of stalling.

Ballot Title for Gambling Amendment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett approved the ballot title of a proposed gambling amendment today and Gov. Orval E. Faubus indicated he would oppose the measure, although perhaps not actively.

Faubus said at a news conference that he would stand by a statement which he made a year ago. At that time he indicated he would fight any attempt made to legalize gambling during the 1963 legislature.

The governor said his stand on gambling was like his stand on the poll tax. "I'm opposed to the poll tax, but I'll accept the will of the people," he said.

If the proposed gambling amendment is adopted in the November election, Faubus said, he has no choice but to appoint a state Gaming Control time since the peace force became operational March 27.

Board to administer legalized gambling in Hot Springs.

Faubus was asked what position he would take if state employees helped circulate petitions to put the gambling amendment on the ballot. About 30,000 signatures are needed by July 2.

Faubus said he would not approve of state employees circulating petitions for any of the several proposed constitutional amendments.

"I expect if any of my employees engage in any political activity, it will be to help Faubus," said the candidate for a sixth term.

The move to legalize gambling was started after Faubus on March 27 ordered illegal gambling activity at Hot Springs halted immediately.

The casinos closed two days later.

The proposed amendment would authorize one gambling casino for each 7,000 residents of Garland County, a total of seven under present population figures.

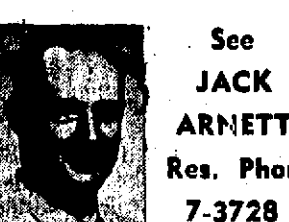

The state would receive from 4 to 5 1/2 per cent of the gross gambling revenue as taxes.

ing out of civil rights cases. In addition, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen Tuesday that an entire package of 11 amendments of Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois on the employment title of the bill was generally acceptable.

And, in his brief remarks today, Humphrey seemed to give endorsement to an amendment of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., on another highly controversial section—public accommodations.

The Saltonstall proposal would establish a 90-day waiting period for voluntary efforts to settle complaints before the government could move to get court injunctions. Humphrey, called this "most constructive."

Humphrey, apparently more optimistic than some other supporters of the bill, doubts it will be necessary to file a cloture petition to break down Southern resistance.

"If we have to file, we'll file it on Monday," the Minnesotan said. "We have the votes for cloture. I doubt if we'll have to file."

Cloture is the Senate's procedure for choking off a filibuster. To invoke it requires two-thirds of the senators on hand, or 67 if all 100 are present.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chief strategist for Southern opponents of the bill, reported after a caucus Wednesday that they declined to agree on a time for voting on the jury trial amendment.

Sponsored by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois as a substitute for a proposal by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., it would provide jury trials in all criminal contempt citations that involved sentences of more than 30 days and fines above $300.

Russell told reporters and then informed Dirksen that the Southerners did not rule out a vote next week, but said "we are not going to make any commitments now." Dirksen had insisted on some word from the Dixie forces Wednesday.

Immediately afterward, Dirksen and Mansfield conferred and Dirksen announced, "It would appear that our only out is a cloture petition."

Arcaro Says Citation Was Best Horse

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Old "Banana Nose," the most successful of all jockeys, will be in multi instead of silks when they saddle up Saturday for the Kentucky Derby but if he could pick his mount it would be Hill Rise.

"This is a big, strong colt—I think he'll take it," said Eddie Arcaro, the millionaire saddle-smith and winner of a record five Derbies, today in his busy mid-Manhattan office.

"He's got a lot of 'ones' on his record (eight straight), and he proved in the Derby Trial Tuesday that he can go any kind of track. Besides, Willie Shoemaker rode both Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, and then chose Hill Rise. That's enough for me."

Arcaro, 48, at 118 only nine pounds over his racing weight, said he hasn't been able to keep up with the sport since he retired two years ago.

"I own this insurance business and just recently I took a plunge in electronics, making a remote-control alarm system," Arcaro said. "On Saturdays and Sundays, when I'm off, I don't go to the race track. I play golf."

He said he ducks the race tracks because he gets tired of shaking hands.

"I seldom look at a racing form any more," he added.

In 31 years of racing, the mite-sized native of Cincinnati had 4,773 winners and his mounts earned a record $30,039,543. He is the only man to ride five Derby winners—Lawrin, Whirlaway, Hoop Jr., Citation and Hill Gail—and the only one twice to win the Triple Crown. He did it on Whirlaway in 1941 and Citation in 1958.

Arcaro says Citation is the best horse he ever rode.

Mays Could Be First in 34 Years

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Can Willie Mays become the National League's first .400 hitter in 34 years?

With the season only 11 games old, Wondrouis Willie is batting .488 and they can't seem to get him out.

But his own San Francisco Giant manager, Al Dark, said today odds are insurmountable for Mays to become the loop's first .400 batter since Bill Terry's .401 in 1930.

The reason?

"Willie is just too brilliant an all-around player," said Dark. "When you play 162 games like Mays does—fielding like he does running like he does, and hustling like he does—it is humanly impossible for him to hit .400."

"A .400 hitter has to concentrate on hitting. Willie concentrates on everything."

"Furthermore, if Willie only hit .350, he'd still be the greatest ball player around."

Mays, who will be 33 on May 6, refused to discuss the possibility of joining the legendary circle of .400 hitters.

"I'm not saying anything, but not anything," Mays commented after his triple and two singles in five trips helped squelch the Chicago Cubs 4-0 Wednesday.

"Let other people talk," said Mays. "Me, I just play baseball and take my hits when I can get them."

Mays never got off to a better start, even when he won the league title with 345 in 1954 or hit .347 in 1958 when he yielded the crown to Richie Ashburn on the last day of the season.

Dark elaborated on the problems Mays faces which the Giant pilot claims the old time hitting stars did not encounter.

"The gloves may be bigger and the bats lighter today, but unquestionably the pitchers are better and the all-around competition stiffer," said Dark.

"The hitter today faces a rival staff of as many as eight good pitchers. It used to be a club had three or four starters and the relief pitchers were after-thoughts, coming in when a game was blown."

"Now you face a bear-down, good pitcher every inning."

Giardello Signs Non-Title Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Middleweight champion Joey Giardello and Juan (Rocky) Rivero signed Wednesday for a 10-round non-title rematch at Cleveland Arena May 22.

The fight will be televised nationally by ABC at 10 p.m. EST, as was the April 17 fight here in which Giardello won a split decision over the Argentine champ.

Bob Lee Is Flying High for the Angels

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Lee, who took an automobile ride to notoriety last season, is flying high these days with the Los Angeles Angels.

Lee, a rookie right-handed pitcher who jumped to the Angels from Class D competition, won his first major league game Wednesday night, hurling a one-hitter for seven innings as Los Angeles whipped Washington 5-1.

Only last Saturday night, Lee held Cleveland to four hits in 10 innings in a game the Indians eventually won 2-1 in 11.

Lee's automobile trip came during the tremendous year he had for Batavia of the New York-Pennsylvania League. The property of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Lee was called on to pitch in an exhibition game at Cleveland against the Indians.

He drove to the game, struck out 16 and rapped two doubles in a 7-1 victory, then drove back to Batavia.

He proceeded to finish the season with a 20-2 record and a 1.70 earned run average, the best marks in the league.

Actually the rise from Batavia to the Angels was not as meteoric as it might seem. The 26-year-old Iowa native spent so much time prepping for the majors he should have considered pushing for an old-age pension plan for the minor leagues.

Lee pitched in the minors for eight years, starting in 1956. His record in that time wasn't even good. Before Batavia, he won 38 games and lost 55.

But now, suddenly, after two starts and 21 innings with Los Angeles, he has compiled a 1.29 earned run average.

Lee's performance Wednesday night highlighted an American League schedule riddled by rain. Detroit nipped Kansas City 5-4 in 10 innings, and Baltimore downed Boston 4-2 in other games. Rain washed out Chicago at New York while wet grounds knocked out Cleveland at Minnesota.

In the National League, Milwaukee edged Pittsburgh 1-0, Los Angeles dropped Houston 7-2, St. Louis squeezed by New York 4-3 in 11 innings and San Francisco blanked Chicago 4-0. Rain postponed Philadelphia at Cincinnati.

Lee, making his second start, gave up only a single to Dick Phillips with one out in the fifth inning. He was removed from the game when he tired in the eighth after walking Hunt. While he was in, the Senators didn't move a man past first base.

After he walked Hunt, though, Washington scored on singles by Don Lock and Ken Retzer off reliever Bob Dulliba.

Joe Koppe tripled home two runs for the Angels in a three-run second inning. Tom Satriano and Bob Rodgers knocked in runs in the third.

Porker Offense Is Improving

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas football offense was "sputtering, but improving" in last Saturday's full-scale scrimmage, Coach Frank Broyles revealed Wednesday.

The Razorbacks resumed their spring practice pattern and worked on the kicking game.

Offensive standouts in the scrimmage, Broyles said, were tackle Jerry Welch, guard Jim Johnson and tackle Gen Ray Hines.

Defensive stars were fullbacks Mike Jordan and Lee Johnson, center Ronnie Caveness and guard Mike Hales, Broyles said.

He said Lloyd Phillips was moved from tackle to guard and Johnson from fullback to end. Ronnie Mac Smith was excused from the remainder of spring practice for academic reasons. The first Red-White game of the spring will be here next Saturday. Broyles said he would try to balance the squads' ability.

Milestones of state history are recorded at the Old State House—the inauguration of a first governor—meetings of legislatures from 1836 to 1910—the secession convention—four of the love constitutional conventions.

Appalachian Bill Goes to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's $220-million program to develop the economy of the Appalachian region starts through Congress today and Democratic leaders promised to head his call for urgent action.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he will press for early hearings so the legislation will be in shape when the Senate completes action on the civil rights bill.

His opposite number, Republican Everett M. Dirksen, declared, however, that he wants to take "a good, hard look" at the program "before reaching a final conclusion."

Johnson, in letters to the Senate and House made public Tuesday, defined the Appalachia region as straddling a 10-state area of more than 165,000 square miles "with more than 15 million Americans in residence."

The nation's general economic progress, Johnson said, "has passed Appalachia by" because of difficult and sometimes impossible access, inadequate control of water causing both floods and scarcity, and "a mineral base of coal, timber and agriculture sorely in need of creative attention."

His programs to help Appalachian citizens "so they can help themselves" are basic, he said, and include:

1. A developmental highway system of 2,350 miles with the states sharing in the cost.
2. An acceleration of water facilities construction.
3. A pasture improvement program.
4. An assistance program for timber management.
5. Expanded programs for promoting new uses of coal, improved mining practices and land restoration.
6. Stepped-up human resources programs.
7. Establishment of a federal-state regional commission for comprehensive planning in the "attack on the economic distress in the region."

At Fort Smith also is the Judge Parker Restoration, which includes the famous courtroom where criminals were tried and a model of the gallows where they were hanged.

Ouachita River Funds Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the Ouachita River project in Arkansas and Louisiana said Tuesday that Army Engineers could utilize another $3.7 million for various phases of the project.

President Johnson's budget recommended $12 million, including $3 million for a 9-foot channel.

H. K. Thatcher of Camden, Ark., and Rex T. Baxter of Arkadelphia, Ark., and others testified before a House appropriations subcommittee on water projects for the year beginning July 1.

The group suggested that the program was exceeding Johnson's budgeted amounts for water projects. They said it was false economy to not have Army Engineers working at maximum capability on each project.

Personal Income Up in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department reported Tuesday that Arkansas showed the third largest percentage gain in personal income in the United States last year.

Nevada gained 13 per cent and Mississippi gained nine per cent.

The department cited increases in agriculture and manufacturing as causes of the Arkansas increase.

Chamber Dines Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas members of Congress were guests of honor, along with their office staffs, at the annual Washington dinner of the Arkansas State Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night.

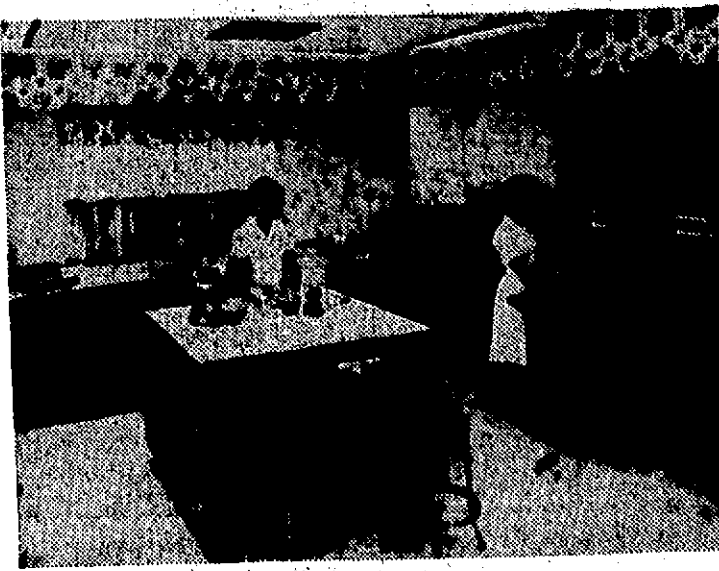

Members of the chamber and their wives were hosts at the social affair at the Sheraton Park Hotel.

Wayne A. Stone of Pine Bluff, state chamber president, was toastmaster.

All members of the delegation were on hand except Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who had a speaking engagement in Arkansas.

The dinner, held in connection with the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was preceded by a cocktail party and reception.

Robin Hood Flour Kitchen

In the recently-expanded Rita Martin Test Kitchen of International Milling Co. Inc., Minneapolis professional home economists develop and test recipes for Robin Hood Pre-Sifted Flour. To make certain the homemaker can attain the same high quality baking results achieved in the test kitchen, all recipes are tested under actual home-like conditions. The kitchen is equipped with both gas and electric ovens and other standard baking utensils and appliances commonly used by homemakers.

The first "no-sift" recipe book ever published in the U.S. is now being offered free to homemakers by International Milling Co. Inc., Minneapolis. Titled, "Let's Bake," it contains 166 "no-sift" recipes — both new and old favorites — showing the homemaker how to bake better and easier without sifting. The digest-size book is wrapped in polyethylene and packed inside 25 and 50 lb. bags of Robin Hood Pre-sifted Flour. A special certificate is packed inside the 2, 5 and 10 lb. bags which the homemaker can mail in, along with 10c for handling to receive her copy.

The 64-page recipe book is divided into seven sections devoted to yeast breads, quick breads, cakes and frostings, cookies, desserts, pies, pastries, and main dishes. It also contains many helpful hints and suggestions on how to improve baking results.

All recipes in the book were developed and tested in the firm's Rita Martin Test Kitchen in Minneapolis. These home-style test kitchen facilities have just been completely remodeled and doubled in size to accommodate the greatly increased activities resulting from the development by Robin Hood of the "no-sift" baking technique. Here is the recipe for Pink Cloud Pie, a delightful dessert, which is included in the new recipe book.

PINK CLOUD PIE (A Robin Hood Pre-Sifted Flour Recipe)

PASTRY

Shape — dough into firm ball with hands.

Roll Out — on lightly floured cloth-covered board.

Place — loosely in 9-inch pie pan. Cut 1 inch larger than pan.

Heat — strawberry juice to boiling over medium heat.

Add — gelatin. Stir to dissolve. Remove from heat.

Chill — until partially set.

Beat — chilled gelatin mixture with electric mixer (medium speed) until light and foamy.

Fold In — fruit and whipped cream.

NOTE: Use other fruits and corresponding flavored gelatines for variety.

* If you use pre-sifted Robin Hood Self-Rising Flour omit salt.

5 MAJOR DISAPPOINTMENTS MEN FIND IN MARRIAGE

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My own marriage to a year is happy, and I plan to keep it that way if I can. But what concerns me is what I see in so many other couples. So much friction exists below the surface. It seems to me men are the first to be disappointed. Just what is it that disappoints the average man about his wife? —M.L.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: The majority of men choose a girl for a mate because she has certain attributes he feels will make a perfect wife. Because they are in love, they are very likely to endow their young lady with perfection. If it is charming and chivalrous, it is also unrealistic.

To be sure, women share this romantic optimism to a degree, but they are basically more realistic than men. The result in many marriages is that the disappointment of the husband, because he was unrealistic, is blamed on the wife.

All Disappointed

Not long ago, one of our better-known midwest psychologists set out to find what the majority of unrealistic disappointments in marriage were. His first discovery was how widespread they are. From all the several hundred married couples he surveyed, none of them got what he or she expected in a mate. And I repeat: none of them!

And this survey brought something else to light: that the men he questioned were twice as disappointed as the women. Not that men are habitually more critical in marriage than women; they aren't. Rather, men form more unrealistic expectations, usually in the intensity of courtship.

This psychologist then went further. Just what are the qualities men most want in marriage, and feel they fail to get?

He found:

First on the most-wanted-but-lacking list by husbands was what we call in psychology "emotional security." Husbands are surprised, and dismayed, to find their wives still plagued by adolescent fears and anxieties — that they haven't learned to take even mild criticism, without becoming personally hurt. Or they haven't grown out of the extreme up-and-down moods of the middle teens.

Poise Lacking At Home

Poise, surprisingly enough, was the number two lacking quality men hoped for, but don't seem to find after marriage. That is, not poise in social situations, where most wives make an effort to excel, but at home. Many wives, it seems, who are the picture of self-control and social charm at parties, turn out to be anything but at home, or at least, so men feel.

And considerateness ranks as the third marital disappointment to men. Wives who seemed the epitome of thoughtfulness in courtship, or had the asset attributed to them, simply turned around and forgot it in marriage, or just relaxed, and acted natural—"natural" being inconsiderate.

Intellectual stimulation ranked as the number four quality men say they hoped for, but find lacking in their marriage. Though young women are everywhere bit as bright as men at school and college, and some of them a lot more so, men feel wives typically reduce the area of their interest to domestic and petty things, to the nearly complete exclusion of an iota of interest in national happenings or outside world affairs.

Last is what men call a lack of efficient homemaking. This survey shows that husbands are somewhat less than delighted with the average wife's running of the family home. They are distressed by their household's

JFK, Johnson Different in Expression

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has now talked enough to provide a reasonable comparison with President John F. Kennedy, and not only as a talker.

Kennedy was distinguished from the beginning of his presidency—in fact, from his inaugural address — his idealism about the possibilities of American life. The same is true of Johnson.

But there is an acute difference in the expression of that idealism.

Kennedy had a better aesthetic sense, as his use of language showed. It appealed not only to intellectuals and young people but to literate people of all ages, for the phrases were memorable, sometimes elegant.

In return he got a sort of national gratitude—judging from the increasingly warm response when he was alive and since then the pilgrimages to his grave—for an eloquence unmatched in the presidency since Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He expressed what many felt but could not say and in words better than perhaps most could have commanded. His speeches showed a lot of homework, sometimes too much.

For sometimes they were too literary, too worked over, too self-conscious, as if in trying to make his sentences bleed he had drained the red corpuscles out of them, leaving more shine than substance.

He worked one literary habit to death; the use on contrasts. Used carefully and sparingly the effect can be brilliant, as it was in, "Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country."

It is not an easy technique to use since it gets monotonous when overdone and sounds like wheels spinning.

In general what he said was much better than how he said it. There was too much monotone, not enough range, not enough inflection. And his gesturing while speaking was unimpressive; the right hand endlessly poking the air.

Johnson's whole performance is different. He is anything but the literary man, as he would probably be the first to admit since he seems to pride himself on his earthiness.

With a prepared talk he's not in Kennedy's class. He is far better off the cuff. In the first place, he has made a fetish of short sentences, letting each in turn stand as a paragraph. It makes for easy speaking but has its drawbacks.

It prevents a rounded flow and development of ideas by forcing abrupt sentence stops every few words. It certainly shuts the door on the kind of contrasts Kennedy like so much.

Much more than Kennedy, Johnson tries for inflection. But the result is seldom good. As he goes along in a prepared speech he will drop his voice, almost to a whisper, in such an obvious effort toward solemnity that the result is disturbing.

But Johnson is far more down to earth than Kennedy ever was. He has some humor, mostly in the form of homely and even corny antidotes, although none of Kennedy's wit.

Yet, there was always a slight barrier between Kennedy and his audience, perhaps an intellectual and aristocratic aloofness. There is not a shred of that in Johnson. He mingles. And deliberately spends his time trying to.

Read almost anything he says. It's close up, in the common language, like this phrase Tuesday night: "This is one country, one society, and one people."

With all this said the most important point — the common bond between the two men — remains: the attempt by both of them to provide inspirational leadership in insisting upon the promise of American life.

It is extraordinary that this should occur in two presidents in succession. It hasn't happened before in this century. Perhaps because foreign anguish and anxieties have diminished a bit, the two men could think more about home.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who had plenty to concern him abroad, at home was much less an inspiration than a manager. The same was true of President Harry S. Truman, who was even more intensely deluged with foreign troubles.

Roosevelt certainly provided inspiration at home, at least in being topsy-turvy, and an alleged feminine disregard for system.

So, all in all, here's a pretty accurate list of what the typical American husband wants in his marriage, and feels he fails to get.

Sub Dependents Funds Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., appealed today for additional contributions to the fund to educate the 194 children of the men who lost their lives in the nuclear submarine Thresher on April 10, 1963.

In a speech prepared for the House, Wyman said he could not understand how the nation could contribute $60,000 to the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, and at the same time contribute less than $1,000 for each of the children of the Thresher victims.

"Today, more than a year after the tragic loss of the submarine Thresher," he said, "the people of the United States and some foreign countries have contributed just over $140,000 to the Thresher Memorial Fund for the education of the 194 children left fatherless."

his early years and before the war consumed all America's energy. Presidents Herbert Hoover and Calvin Coolidge could hardly be said to have done so. President Woodrow Wilson did.

President William H. Taft didn't. President Theodore Roosevelt did to some extent, when he wasn't thinking of expanding American power abroad. Behind him stretches a long period of no inspiration.

Kidnaper of Boy 8, Is Captured

By DON MCLEOD

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A brave boy returned home today with his joyful parents after four days as the captive of a man the FBI called a dangerous psychopath.

Dennis Burke, 8, was rescued by FBI agents in New Orleans, La., Tuesday and Joseph Francis Bryan Jr., one of the nation's "10 most wanted" fugitives was arrested.

The FBI flew the boy from New Orleans to Memphis, where he rejoined his parents and 12-year-old brother in an emotional reunion at the airport.

"There he is," gasped Mrs. Richard Burke when she spotted her son. She swept him into her arms. "There's my baby. Hi, honey. Hi, baby."

The chipper lad, clad in striped polo shirt, blue jeans and tennis shoes seemed more upset over being kissed in public than by his recent adventure.

Mrs. Burke had collapsed in tears earlier after getting word that her son, kidnaped from nearby Humboldt, Tenn., last Friday, was safe.

Police had been looking for Bryan in the area in connection with the kidnap-slitting of a

Goldwater Sued by Designer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater and his son, Barry Jr., are being sued by a dress designer who says he still owed money for dresses he designed for the Goldwater girls.

Jerry DeLee of Beverly Hills said in his suit Tuesday he designed 20 dresses for the Arizona Republican's primary at a cost of $1,040, but had been paid only $400.

DeLee's attorney said the dresses were worn at a rally for Goldwater and also at a $100-a-plate dinner held recently in the Sports Arena.

South Carolina boy, Dennis' disappearance intensified the hunt. Bryan, of Audubon Park, N.J., was arraigned before a federal commissioner in New Orleans. He was charged with kidnaping John D. Robison, 10, of Mount Pleasant, S.C., last Feb. 27.

The boy's unclothed body was found near Hallandale, Fla., March 31.

"I don't understand what this kidnaping is," muttered Bryan in an almost inaudible voice. "I didn't kidnap nobody."

Bond was set at $100,000 on the kidnap charge, with another $50,000 on a charge of unlawful flight from South Carolina to avoid prosecution.

A Choice of Assassins

By William P. McGivern

THE STORY: When Malcolm did not shoot himself for a glass of brandy, Domingo, who paid for the brandy, said Malcolm owes him a life and must kill someone. Now Domingo says "The most important man in the world has the muzzle of a gun against his head and my hand is on the trigger."

XVI

Malcolm occupied himself by photographing the streets and shops of Cartama, and the mountains above the village. To some extent, he was losing his mantle of notoriety; his behavior was so conventional that no one paid much attention to him any more. Also the story of what had happened at Domingo's had become so garbled in the retelling that now even the eye-witnesses were confused and vague about the details.

In this unnatural but not unpleasant lacuna, Malcolm let his cameras trap the reality of his surroundings; he abandoned his usual techniques and tricks, and tried to catch the look of things as simply as possible. As a commercial photographer, he had trained his eye to find irony and humor in human situations. Better than that of course, was "story." The Ambassador's wife sleeping through her husband's speech, the frightened African child weeping at the strange discomfort of his first pair of shoes.

Now he was trying to be more honest. There was no truth in photographing the village from the mountains so that it looked only like a cluster of white and lovely shells strewn along the beach. Nor was there truth in using the lens like the snout of a pig to root up only dirt and filth. There must be balance.

One cool, sunny afternoon he stopped on the rocky trail above the Arroyo de Miel, and stared down at the sea. He studied the water and the beach in an attempt to find a relationship between the fishing nets strung out to dry on the sand and the waves that broke like angrily tumbled lace along the shore line.

As he took the shot of the beach and lowered his camera, he saw that someone had come up the trail, and had stopped to watch him. She wore blue jeans and a white shirt, and Malcolm had the odd notion that he had seen her before, although he couldn't imagine where. She was young and slim, with thick black hair knotted behind her head, and her eyes were dark and luminous in her small brown face.

"I saw you pass my house," she said. "Can I talk to you?"

"You live in the Arroyo de Miel?" he asked her.

She nodded slowly, appraising him with dark, glistening eyes.

"We could go to my house and talk. There's coffee, things to drink."

"What do you want to talk to me about?"

She seemed to deliberate, watching him with her dark eyes. Then she said simply, "I need some help."

"You better try somebody else," Malcolm said.

"You can help me. Please."

"I doubt it, Tani. Yes, that was her name, he realized."

"Have I met you before?"

"Yes, you came to my house early one morning. You were drunk."

She studied his face and eyes carefully then; as he continued to regard her pleasantly but neutrally, she went on with more confidence. "Oh, yes, you were very drunk, and all you wanted was something to drink, so I gave you some brandy, and you rested and smoked a cigarette and felt very much better, of course."

"You were good to me? Patient, generous, kind?"

She dismissed his words with a smile. "What is a little brandy? A cigarette?"

"How can I help you?"

"What is happening with you and Domingo?"

"Nothing at the moment. Why should that interest you?"

"It's not for me. It's for someone else."

"All right," Malcolm said. "He wants me to kill someone for him."

"It isn't good to joke like that."

"You have the story of my relationship with Domingo," he said. "I hope you can sell it or trade it for something profitable."

She stared at him in silence, her eyes moving fearfully over his features. "You are going to do it? Kill someone?"

"Yes."

"Who is it?"

"I don't know."

She gave him a wary, puzzled glance, trying to guess at his intentions or needs. But she learned nothing from his eyes or his face. She suddenly felt weak and helpless. She disliked the pressure of his hand on her arm, but she was afraid to pull away from him. Feeling frustrated and apprehensive, she allowed him to guide her down the curving trail to her home in the Arroyo de Miel.

LBJ Handing Something for Everyone

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, sailing high with increasing confidence in himself and his campaign to be all things to all people, has just given a masterful performance and a great insight into how he is going about it.

In his speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday he pulled out all the stops, touching each listener, and each reader later, with appeals to the various motivations of a man in the American society today.

There was something in it for the rich, the poor, for conservatives, for liberals, for the sick, the old, the untrained, and the young ambitious.

What he said Monday and how he said it—since he is going to run for election in November—can be taken as the key to the directions his political campaign will take, and how he'll handle it.

While this was a speech to businessmen it was also a tremendous political speech.

He appealed to his listeners' desire for frugality in government and their own desire to make money; to their desire for peace and at the same time for military security; to their humanity, their compassion, and their patriotism.

It was all there but he was careful, although you might not notice the various transitions, to humanize himself in the process by shifting from soaring sentences to homey phrases and homely images, like the old house where he was born. He says he keeps a picture of it in his bedroom.

The implication he got across was that what he could do any American could do in his rise from humble beginnings to the White House — if he had the chance. And he was asking everyone to pitch in to help everyone get the chance.

Thus the picture of Lyndon Johnson which emerged from all he said—modestly, as if in passing, but certainly intentionally—was that of an American epic which didn't have to be unique.

In short, he made the widest kind of appeal to the greatest number of people for he knew far more people would be reading later what he said than could be jammed together to hear him Monday.

He started out with a fairly short, prepared speech which might have taken 15 minutes to deliver. By the time he got through adding to it, sometimes in a rambling but humorous way, he had talked an hour.

The chamber members and their wives at the end gave him such a prolonged, standing ovation that he had to take what amounted to two curtain calls. Twice he had to return to wave thanks.

Some of the techniques—The homely phrase: "You can go home and tell our friends that you have an independent, taxpaying, light-bill-savin' President in the White House."

Patriotism: "I believe this strong and this rich and this successful nation can bring peace to the world and I believe it so strongly I am going to work for it and fight for it and I hope I get it."

The homely image: "I have a little house where I was born, the son of a tenant farmer, a picture of which is hanging up in my bedroom (in the White House), because every night when I go to bed and every morning when I wake up, I call it the 'opportunity house.'"

His appeals—To frugality and the desire to make money: he promised less government spending, pointing out he reduced the budget, less government jobs, and predicted 1964 would bring industry $30 billion in profits.

To humanity and self-interest: in soliciting help for his fight on poverty, unemployment, medical care for the aged, job training, he said, "Unless you attack the causes of poverty itself, you are going to be shoveling it out to the tax-eaters instead of producing and training tax-payers."

As indications of his efforts and good times ahead he pointed to the rail dispute he helped settle; the tax cut he got through Congress; figures on a rising economy; military strength;

Wants No Change in Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A church leader today opposed any tampering with the First Amendment to permit prayers in the public schools.

Edwin H. Tuller, general secretary of the American Baptist Convention, calling daily school prayers "more rote than worship," urged the House Judiciary Committee to reject dozens of proposed constitutional amendments before it.

"It would be tragic if in a moment of emotional turmoil the nation weakened the First Amendment and woke too late to the realization that a fundamental freedom had been damaged, perhaps destroyed," he said in prepared testimony.

Tuller was the first public witness called before the committee which has heard nearly 30 members of Congress demand adoption of a constitutional amendment to nullify the Supreme Court's ruling in 1962 and 1963 against official school prayers and any required Bible reading.

He didn't quite follow the advice he quoted from George Washington: "Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive." Johnson's speech wasn't short but it was comprehensive.

Orders Negroes Back in School

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A federal court which warned that violence cannot frighten away integration, has ordered six Negroes put back in school at Natusulga.

The high school wing of Natusulga's three-building complex was destroyed by the April 18, two months after Negro pupils broke the color barrier and touched off a mass boycott by white pupils.

But the adjoining white grammar school and auditorium escaped damage. The three-judge court Tuesday ordered facilities made available for the Negroes in one of those buildings

Solved Problem of Bear Complaints

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP)—The city solved the problem of how to stop complaints that three bears in the city park were being treated inhumanely.

The bears had lived in a concrete-lined pit 20 feet deep and 35 feet wide for six years, since they were cubs. Some local citizens complained that it was cruel to make the bears live there.

The court took judicial notice of newspaper stories which quoted the chief state fire marshal, Virgil Kilchens, as saying the fire apparently was started by arsonists.

there.

City Manager John Porter said if the bears were turned loose they could not survive in the wilds because they had no experience ther. So he ordered them knocked out with a tranquilizer and then killed by a rifle shot Tuesday.

Porter said other zoos in Oregon were not interested in taking the bears.

no later than Thursday.

The court took judicial notice of newspaper stories which quoted the chief state fire marshal, Virgil Kilchens, as saying the fire apparently was started by arsonists.

Life Among Jobless in Stricken Area

EDITOR'S NOTE—What is life like for an unemployed man and his family in the economically distressed coal mining country of southern West Virginia—where unemployment is an inescapable fact? Here is the story of an ordinary day.

By JAMES HAUGHT
Charleston Gazette-Mail

TAD, W.Va. (AP)—The heat from the gas stove was stifling. The windows were steamed over and it was drizzling outside. The unpaved lane at the lower end of Tad was slick with mud.

Blonde sisters Rebecca June and Ruth Ann slept huddled together in the bed they share. Their mother, Emma, 35, slept in the other bed. Their father, Denzil, 49, slept on a couch in the living room.

At 4 a.m., the father awoke, rubbed an aching shoulder, turned the fire down and got dressed. He gulped two pills for his high blood pressure, washed them down with a swig of water from a mason jar. Then he folded his blankets, splashed cold water in his chubby face and brewed a cup of instant coffee. Former coal miners are, by old habit, very early risers.

Denzil and his family get along on his dollar-an-hour earnings from the Aid to Dependent Children of the unemployed program.

"I guess I'd still be in the mines if my nerves hadn't got bad," he says. "I couldn't take it any more."

Technically, Denzil has been on the employe roster of the Libby-Owens-Ford glass plant in Charleston since 1953, but he hasn't worked there in two years. He is a union member and clings to the hope that mounting seniority will get him back to work.

He has been drawing unemployment benefits, knocking around on temporary jobs.

"The ADC isn't much, but it keeps us from going hungry," he said. "It's not like charity. I work hard. I spade snow all day, or mop, or sweep, or work the trash truck. In the summer we cut grass or rake leaves."

"I'm tired when I get home at night."

Denzil has been with the ADC for a year and a half. He is assigned to the state capitol where he serves as gardener, janitor and trash collector.

He gets $27.69 a week, or about $1,440 a year. He is limited to 120 hours a month, usually works that much in three weeks.

These earnings, plus a monthly ration of federal surplus commodities—locally called molasses, or mollygrub—keep the family alive.

As Denzil emptied his coffee cup, Emma got up.

She is cheery and plump with an Irish face. She washed up, and joined Denzil for coffee.

The girls bounced up within minutes, scurrying around in their nightshirts. Becky, 9, is dimpled and shy. Ruth Ann, 7, is rounder and more talkative.

Emma lit the kitchen stove and began breakfast. Most of food was mollygrub: rolled wheat cooked as hot cereal, lunch meat fried in government lard, and surplus butter for the toast.

During breakfast, Becky and Ruth giggled. Emma talked of an elderly neighbor woman who was dying. Denzil read his newspaper.

Daylight arrived by the end of breakfast. The girls peeked out to assess the weather. The day television routine began.

Denzil fiddled with the dials, jiggled the antenna wires, but the picture was dim and distorted. The old set was just too far gone.

However, it caught a gray ghost of a country music show. The girls brought their clothes into the living room, watched television as they dressed, soon were bundled up and hurrying to meet the school bus.

The television musicians still were singing loudly as Emma set up an ironing board beside the set. Denzil continued reading his paper.

"She says she likes it better when I'm working," Denzil offered. "I'm not around underfoot so much."

At lunchtime, Emma got out some of her home-canned fruit and vegetables to add to the mollygrub. Government food alone makes for a starchy diet.

Returning to the television set, she prepared for an afternoon of the soap operas she follows daily.

Denzil watched for a few minutes, then returned to his newspaper. He said he was looking for news of construction jobs

POW—Standing in an almost statue-like state, a man watches a burst of smoke and scattered fragments near him. Although it looks like someone threw a bomb, it was only a large display of fireworks for a celebration in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Reichman's Idea Really Paid Well

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In 1961, Henry Reichman had an idea and was $20,000 in debt.

Today he is a multimillionaire.

Reichman made his quick fortune because people like to play games.

He has devised games which are played by supermarket customers for cash prizes.

His first game was Spell C-A-S-H and it went over with a bang.

Reichman estimates that he has sold a billion game cards to supermarkets in the last three years.

The games, like trading stamps, are intended to be trade stimulants in the highly competitive supermarket business.

"We have created the only new trend in the supermarket business since stamps were introduced," said Reichman in an interview.

"In two and one-half years we have developed a business in which supermarkets have spent $10 million on my games alone."

Reichman has lots of competition but claims to dominate 80 per cent of the field.

Reichman was born in 1907 in Germany of a well-to-do family and came to the United States in 1929. He worked as a promoter in the supermarket field with varied success until he turned to games in 1961.

He says he believed that the only kind of game that had a chance against stamps had to involve cash.

Spell C-A-S-H was tested in September and October in Dayton, Ohio, he says.

The deal stipulated the store would have to supply a written report by a certified public accountant detailing the success and increases of customer count and sales.

"In that way, any chain I went to would have something in their hands that would be respected by everybody," he said. Reichman's first real break came when Jewel Tea of Chicago decided they would use his game to fight A&P's linkage with Plaid Stamps.

"This was the day I knew I would make a minimum of a million in the next six months," Reichman recalls.

where he might find work.

Denzil shifted on the couch and puffed a hand-rolled cigarette. "I'm sort of stuck here now because I have my union seniority built up pretty good."

Denzil fell asleep, napped until the girls came back from school.

Emma started dinner and there were more molasses: surplus cornmeal baked into cornbread, surplus navy beans, more government lunch meat, and a little rice fixed up as pudding.

Back to the blurry television. As the evening wore on Becky fell asleep on the couch. When Denzil dozed, Emma woke everybody and shoed them off to bed.

Denzil turned down the fires, gulped his blood-pressure pills, spread his blankets and flicked off the television set.

Rep. Harris Suffers a Bad Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Rules Committee inflicted a smarting defeat on Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., by blocking the administration's transportation bill from the House floor Tuesday.

The vote was 37.

Harris had guided the bill through two years of hearings and to final approval by his House Commerce Committee.

But some branches of the industry pressured the Rules Committee into blocking the bill.

The bill's main provisions would have:

—Given railroads the same exemption that trucks now have from regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of their rates for hauling grain and other agricultural commodities.

—Taken away a good part of the exemption from ICC rate regulations now held by water barges for hauling coal, oil, sand and other bulk commodities.

Railroads applauded the bill, but it was opposed by the coal industry, water barges, grain traders and port interests.

Malaysia Plans Tougher Policies

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—With a fresh mandate from his people, Malaysia's Prime Minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman turned today to shaping new and likely tougher policies to meet Indonesia's hostility.

Rahman was reported laying the groundwork for legislation, giving the government a sterner hand in dealing with Indonesian-backed guerrilla forces in Malaysian Borneo and with saboteurs throughout the federation.

Rahman also was reported considering appointment of a new Cabinet minister to direct antiguerrilla operations in Sarawak and Sabah, Malaysia's two Borneo states bordering Indonesia.

The prime minister's right-of-center Alliance party captured 89 out of 104 seats in the federal Parliament in voting Saturday in Malaysia's 11 states. With Alliance support from Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah, this assured Rahman nearly four-fifths of the 159-seat Malaysian legislature.

Teachers Get Journalism Awards

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Two Arkansas high school journalism teachers have been awarded summer study grants by The Newspaper Fund.

They are Mrs. Martha H. Whipple of Russellville, wife of Garth Whipple, publisher of the Russellville Courier-Democrat, and Mrs. Marie Benson of Springdale. Mrs. Whipple teaches at Russellville High School, Mrs. Benson at Springdale High School.

Mrs. Whipple will attend a seminar at the University of Colorado. Mrs. Benson will attend the University of Arkansas.

Some 381 high school teachers will attend 36 colleges and universities under the program to emphasize writing and editing courses and give special attention to problems of organization and production.

President Has Approval of Business

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—If his reception by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce is a reliable indicator, President Johnson has won the general approval of the nation's business community.

But many of those who applauded or laughed 60 times during his hour's rambling discourse before the group Monday obviously are going to take a hard look at Johnson's dealings with the big labor unions before they reach any final political judgments on him.

Johnson's reception by the chamber was an astonishing one. After his speech, one member of the overwhelmingly Republican audience observed: "Maybe not a soul here will vote for him. But he's sure done some damage to Republican campaign contributions."

Another commented: "This fellow is trying to get elected unanimously."

The chamber is historically a poor audience for Democrats. The late Paul Butler, when Democratic national chairman, was booed during one hot debate on government welfare spending.

There was booing again in 1961 when Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., grew angry at the hostile reception he received in a debate with a conservative economist at a U.S. Chamber convention. Clark advised the delegates to "grow up;" he got a storm of derisive jeers.

President John F. Kennedy, in his lone appearance at a chamber session, received little more than polite applause.

Although former President Dwight D. Eisenhower never missed addressing the chamber's annual meeting in his eight years in office, the friendly receptions he received never approached the storm of applause that Johnson won Monday.

The chamber's applause for Johnson was the more remarkable because Edwin P. Neilan, retiring chamber president, has been stumping the country for months denouncing the administration's domestic policy.

Neilan, a Delaware banker, has accused Johnson of wearing "the false face of frugality." He has used such terms as "im-

PUSH UP (AND OUT)—Although it looks like a freak accident, the excavator just lifted itself up on its two mighty shovels high and wide enough to allow a car and truck to pass underneath. morality," "seduction by subsidy," "picking the taxpayer's pocket," and "bribery" to describe the administration's budget and domestic programs.

Johnson warmed his business listeners with a forecast that profits after taxes will reach $30 billion this year, up nearly $3 billion over 1963.

But some were not so enthusiastic about his statement that he is going to call on industry later to reduce some prices for the benefit of consumers.

They may have been a little puzzled as to just what he meant, but they clapped loudly when he added: "And then, in the same week, I am going to call in the leaders of the working men and tell them the same thing."

The general feeling among politicians is that Johnson will be presented with a number of opportunities to try out his persuasive powers on labor before the election. His roughest test may come in the United Auto Workers' bargaining with the motor manufacturers late this summer.

The Territorial Capitol Building was the meeting place of the last Territorial Legislature, October 5 to November 16, 1835.

U.S. to Shift Some Defense Spending

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen are being advised to plan for a gradual shift of some government spending from defense to civilian programs.

The financial publishing firm, Prentice-Hall, discusses the change and possibilities in the latest issue of its Executive Report.

"Develop your capabilities so you can take advantage of the big new growth markets that are shaping up," it counsels. "Initiate or intensify research and development of new products and technologies in the directions that growth in nondefense sectors is likely to take."

It is expected that actual and prospective defense spending declines will likely be offset—and outweighed—by heavier expenditures on civil public works and nondefense services.

Prentice-Hall says: "Prepare now to tap new growth markets in nondefense lines by either expanding into

More Money for Arkansas River Asked

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-state delegation asked today that Congress exceed budget recommendations by $15 million in order to keep the Arkansas River navigation construction program on schedule for completion in 1970.

Members of the group, from Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas, testified before the House Public Works Appropriations Subcommittee considering appropriations for water projects for the year starting July 1.

President Johnson's budget recommends a total of $80 million would delay completion of the navigation project at least one year, perhaps more.

They have said that an additional $15 million would keep the work on schedule for the 1970 completion target.

Spokesman for the big group was Glade Kirkpatrick, Tulsa, who was presented to the committee by Rep. James Trimble, D-Ark. Other members of the group, including members of Congress from the three states, submitted written statements.

Kirkpatrick said the delegation proposes $52 million for various locks and dams in the river, compared with $42 million recommended in the budget. He called this a critical item.

In addition, the group seeks $1.5 million for Ozark Lock and Dam in Arkansas, compared with $1 million in the budget; $1.5 million for Webber Falls Lock and Dam in Oklahoma, as against the budget's $1 million, and $6 million for the Robert S. Kerr Lock and Dam in Oklahoma, vs. $3 million in the budget.

Sen. A. S. Monroney, D-Okla., said in his statement to the subcommittee that the project, to provide a 9-foot channel from the Mississippi River to Catootsa, Okla., is of "prime concern" to the tri-state group.

He said the Army Engineers them or merging with firms now active in them.

"Whether you are a defense contractor or not, your business will be affected by defense spending cuts—either directly as contracts and subcontracts get skimpier, or indirectly as the secondary effects of defense spending weaken."

The publisher sees the areas likely to gain most from prospective channeling of public funds into civilian uses as urban renewal, urban mass transit, water and sewer systems and education and medical services.

To rehabilitate American cities, an average of $10.5 billion annually in public and private funds will be required for the next 20 years. About $1.5 billion was spent for that purpose in 1963.

Financial requirements to relieve growing congestion in downtown areas by fast rail and bus service are officially calculated at $1 billion a year for 10 years. Current annual expenditures run to less than one-fifth of that.

Spending of about $4 billion yearly through 1970 is needed to eliminate the backlog of urgent needs for water and sewer systems. Only about half that amount is being spent now.

Construction of 100,000 classrooms annually is needed through 1969, compared with about 65,000 built in 1963. The market for educational aids will grow faster than school construction as industry and government manpower training programs expand.

Health services will expand rapidly. About $1 billion is needed to modernize hospitals. Medical schools, now training 8,000 enrolled students a year, will eventually have to take care of 12,000 to meet health service demands.

have testified that the project cost would increase $9 million to $10 million for each year of delay and that a year's delay would mean loss of $6 million in estimated benefits from the project.

In April, 1897, one of the greatest floods ever known in the state occurred.

Joseph T. Robinson was Congressman, Governor and U.S. Senator during the period of one year, 1913.

Russians Have Licked Flood Threat

MOSCOW (AP)—A 40,000-man force worked today to release the landslide-trapped waters of the Zeravshan River, but the urgency of their task appeared diminished.

The huge labor force worked around the clock to cut a drain-off canal through the landslide which filled a narrow canyon between the Zeravshan and Turkestan mountain ranges last Friday and dammed the river.

Moscow papers said that the famed cities of Samarkand, 100 miles downriver, and Bukhara, 130 miles farther along the Zeravshan's course, were in no danger of floods. But a number of villages below the landslide dam have been evacuated.

Reports from the scene, in the Tadzhik Republic bordering Afghanistan, said further blasting on the diversionary canal will be later. Engineers originally estimated they had only until Friday to build the canal, figuring the backed-up water would to the landslide dam by then.

It is said that, for a waker, half dozen men from the city prominent families tried to ride horses up the inside spiral stairs of the Old State House.

Big Advance in Orbiting Big Payloads

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) — Unprecedented 100,000 - pound payloads soon can be hurled into orbit by mass-produced solid rocket motors locked into clusters, says an aerospace expert.

Such loads would be seven times greater than the heaviest the Russians have been known to orbit.

Cylinders of rocket power stacked like tomato cans will be able to lift the 50 tons of useful cargo within three years, Barnett R. Adelman, president of United Technology Center, a division of United Aircraft Corp., predicts.

The center is already producing segmented rockets for the Titan III-C, which the Air Force expects to be a work-horse booster for the next decade of space launching.

A pair of five-segment motors on the Titan III-C will provide more than two million pounds of lift-off thrust. The vehicle is scheduled for its first flight tests in 1965.

Each steel-jacketed segment of the first-stage booster is 10 feet in diameter and weighs about 50 tons when filled with rubbery fuel.

Clustering rockets isn't a new idea. Last year the center test fired a cluster of 24 smaller solid-fuel segments, four six-motor stacks. Anchored to the test pad, it produced 140,000 pounds of thrust during a 14-second burning time.

The superlauncher would be as tall as a 26-story building and weigh more than seven million pounds.

It would cost substantially less than a launch vehicle of the same payload capacity using an all-liquid propellant, Adelman says.

LBJ Is Urged to Make a Western Tour

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson who has a fondness for grasping voters' hands, is being urged to make a Western inspection tour in May or June that could take him as far as Hawaii.

For a president who wishes to preserve as long as possible the pleasant fiction that he isn't campaigning, tours of this kind offer a chance to get out and meet the people where they live. Johnson has said he wants to hold down political activity until after the party nominating conventions.

These trips are always billed as nonpolitical expeditions on which the country's head man is seeing for himself how matters are progressing at the grass roots.

This usually results in futile outcries from the opposition that the chief executive is politicking at the taxpayers' expense. But such complaints are mostly for the record and even their authors expect little public reaction to them.

Johnson's desk is loaded with all kinds of invitations for him to dedicate dams, inspect new atomic complexes, cut ribbons on highways and view conservation projects.

The President has a bipartisan invitation to visit Hawaii, which is about as far as he can go from the mainland under his self-imposed rule not to leave the country so long as there is no vice president.

Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Hiram L. Fong, R-Hawaii, called on the President recently and asked him to dedicate some new battle monuments being erected in the National Cemetery of the Pacific.

If he goes there, Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, said he hopes the President will stop long enough to dedicate the Flaming Gorge Dam in Utah, where President John F. Kennedy turned the valve that started the flow of water.

Johnson, who sometimes gives the appearance of being restive at White House confinement, is reported sympathetic to the idea of making a Western tour. He has always been politically popular in the Plains and Rocky Mountain area.

France, China Pick Ambassadors

PARIS (AP) — France and Red China announced the appointments of their ambassadors to Peking and Paris today three months after they established diplomatic relations.

Red China chose Huang Chen, a diplomat who formerly was a major general in the Chinese Communist army. He is one of six deputy foreign ministers. His age was not given.

France named Lucien Paye, 57, who recently has been ambassador to Senegal.

Paye served as minister of education in 1962.

Full Integration for Presbyterians

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP)—The Presbyterian Church in the U.S., Southern, sought today to make explicit that no person may be excluded from its worship services because of his race.

The general assembly, in session in Montreat, approved this addition to its directory of worship:

"No one shall be excluded from participation in public worship in the Lord's House on the grounds of race, color or class."

A majority vote of the denomination's 80 presbyteries will be necessary before the addition is made.

Still pending before the assembly was a resolution to eliminate the denomination's three all-Negro presbyteries.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"This is the cruelest town in the world of talent. Hollywood's full of talented people, but hardly anyone will give them a chance to show what they can do."

Sidney Linden spoke from harsh experience. Thirty years ago he was a baritone with rare promise. A staff singer for CBS, his radio program followed that of a pop crooner. The difference between them was more than singing style; Linden earned $15 vs. Bing Crosby's $500.

The young baritone studied with great teachers who predicted a brilliant career. But success as a singer eluded him. Instead, he became a pen-making millionaire, and now is impresario of a concert hall designed to expose talent whom heartless Hollywood overlooks.

Linden is president of the Lindy Pen Co., which he started as a one-man operation 19 years ago and which now enjoys a $12 million yearly volume.

The pen business and his other enterprises occupy only a part of his day. During most of every afternoon and evening he can be found at the Lindy Opera House, a onetime film theater at Wilshire and LaBrea which he converted to a musical showcase for $160,000.

The opera house produces a healthy deficit, which bothers him not a whit.

One of his greatest pleasures is the holding of auditions for new talent to be presented at the opera house. In this regard he stressed "new" and not necessarily "young."

Said he: "Most auditions place all the emphasis on young talent, and I think that is unfortunate. Producers think that anyone past the age of 34 is not suitable for singing jobs. But there are many singers in their late 30s and 40s who have magnificent voices and deserve a chance to be heard."

Says Problems of People Are Important

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—People and their problems are as much a part of the federal agriculture program as commodities, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman told a luncheon meeting here today.

But the human side of the problem started coming to the fore only in recent years, he said, moving up alongside commodities as a major area of interest in the Agriculture Department.

Freeman told a luncheon session of the National Watershed Congress:

"Only since 1961 have we started to think more broadly in terms of the human problems of people on less than adequate farms."

"We have just started to think of communities which need to diversify their economic base if they are to survive, to think of widespread cancer of poverty in rural America, to think of the growing needs of families and individuals in cities and suburbs for land and water and space where they can relax and play."

Freeman said the three basic parts of the farm program are the commodity program, the community program and the food program.

Freeman told the delegates that watershed programs embrace a range of interests far wider than agriculture.

"You represent a community of interests—farm, conservation of soil, water and wildlife, forestry, industry, recreation, urban and city—all of which depend on the resources of the watershed," he said.

He cited several cases where watershed improvement has aided certain areas, but added: "The plain truth is that we must do more in the next decade."

On surplus commodities,

Industry Seek Negroes Who Qualify

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Qualified Negro college graduates are being sought by industry this year as never before.

A survey indicates that unprecedented numbers of industrial recruiters have swarmed over campuses to hunt out talk to and in many cases hire Negro graduates at top starting salaries.

The search for outstanding Negroes is a part of an all-out hunt for able June graduates, but many companies are showing an especial interest in the graduating Negro.

And says Business Week magazine, which conducted the survey, there is a general feeling that industry really wants the Negro, that the recruiting rush isn't merely a desire to provide "window dressing."

One student was quoted as saying:

"We believe the new jobs are for real, that this is not a fad. There is some uncertainty about the future, but the general belief is that more jobs are opening up."

Fisk University in Nashville has had to extend its normal recruiting sessions for at least another month. Howard University in Washington, D.C., turned away more recruits this year than visited the college five years ago, and has logged 50 per cent more interviews than last year. In Texas, Prairie View College and Texas Southern University report a tenfold increase in visiting industrial recruiters over the past few years.

The main targets of the recruiters are top Negro graduates majoring in science, biology, physics, mathematics, chemistry and engineering. "Starting salaries in these fields run up to $670 a month with an average just under $600. These compare favorably with starting salaries for all graduates."

Placements directors say they could place many more science and engineering graduates than they have available.

Business administration, especially accounting, is proving to be a good field for Negroes. The placement director at Fisk said he was "amazed at the tremendous thrust for students majoring in business administration."

A problem is that the supply of qualified Negroes in business fields, as in engineering and science, fails to meet industry's demand.

Gary Barber testified that the day before the shooting Mrs. Wyatt approached Griffin and called him a thief, a liar and a cheat.

Blanton and Barber said they were working with Griffin at the time of the incidents they related.

Dr. Finis Wyatt of Batesville, brother of Wyatt, testified that Mrs. Wyatt had been a diabetic patient of his for three years at the time of her death.

State Rests in Murder Case

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The state rested its case in the first degree murder trial of Clyde Griffin here Tuesday.

Griffin, 75, of near Newark, is charged in the Feb. 4 shooting of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Wyatt of Rosie. The jury is qualified for the death penalty.

Buford Blanton, 67, testified that Mrs. Wyatt struck Griffin over the head with a stick and called him a son of a bitch before the shooting started.
